Invest in critical metals with AuAg Essential Metals

We are in the midst of a third age of metal.

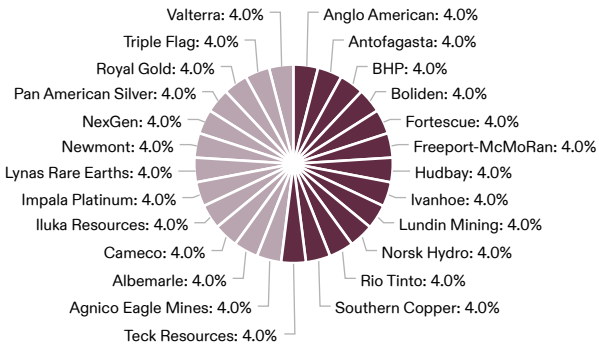
The first metal age began when humanity left the Stone Age and forged its first tools. The second came with the Industrial Revolution: trains, cars and aircraft, all built from metal. Today, we are living through the third.

Every metal age has had its essential metals. The third has more than any before it. Energy, power grids, AI and defence all depend on monumental amounts of various metals – such as copper, lithium, uranium and rare earths, as well as gold and silver. Worldwide demand for metals continues to rise unabated, simultaneously new discoveries are increasingly hard to find. Creating a disruptive supply/demand environment.

Mining shares tend to move more than the metals themselves, in both directions. As the mining sector is also quite volatile, having exposure to many different metals spreads risk.

AuAg Essential Metals invests 25 carefully selected mining companies, held in equal weights, across base, critical and precious metals.

Holdings



Portfolio Holdings Target Weight (TW). Live percentage may differ due to Tactical/Actual Weight (TACW).

Portfolio Holdings Strategy

The fund is traded daily and follows the UCITS (5/10/40) framework. A broad sector fund that invests at least 90% in companies involved in the extraction and processing of basic materials with a special focus on industrial and new technology metals. All 25 holdings are equal-weighted with a 4% target weight and divided into two categories. Cat1: industrial base metals, Cat2: green-, high-, and bio-tech metals. All holdings are allowed to be within +/-25% of target weight. All holdings are traded at the most liquid markets (approximately 70% US and 30% Global exUS). Benchmark is M1WD0MM (MSCI ACWI Metals and Mining Net Total Return Index) in the funds trading currency (class A = SEK).

Unbundled, ISIN Class C SE0019175589. For more information, newsletters and updates please visit: auagfunds.com
