

BUSINESS DDOS PROTECTION

We protect you before your network grinds to a halt

With digitalization forging ahead, being permanently available online is invaluable for businesses and organizations with online stores, online admin offerings, online government services, online banking or online media. Whenever online services are down, there are direct additional costs – such as revenue and productivity losses – as well as indirect costs, such as damages to one’s reputation.

Distributed denial-of-service (DDOS) attacks drive a wedge between your organization and the Internet. These attacks occur each and every day and they are growing increasingly sophisticated with more precise targeting. Today, DDOS attacks as a service are very cheap to buy online. With the Business DDOS protection service, you protect yourself against such attacks around the clock.

We stop DDOS attacks in the backbone itself

Business DDOS protection continuously monitors your Internet access, learning what your normal network traffic looks like. You will immediately be informed if something out of the ordinary happens. If such a deviation is in fact a DDOS attack, you have the option of immediately fending off the attack yourself, or the pre-defined auto mitigation feature takes care of this for you, fully automatically. Alternatively, you can access the services of our specialists at any time of day.

Business DDOS protection recognizes and fends off DDOS threats in the Sunrise Internet backbone, before your Internet connection or IT systems become overloaded. You configure which services in your network must be protected. Flexibly adjust Business DDOS protection to the demands of your organization. Take control of and minimize the risk of sudden outages in your digital presence.
