workplaces

The office chair market and potential issues

As of 2026 office workers typically spend two-thirds to three-quarters of their working hours sitting, with over 80% of office workers sitting for four to nine hours daily. Prolonged sitting is linked to higher risks of back pain, cardiovascular disease, Type 2 diabetes, and premature mortality. Nearly 64% of European workplaces cite sitting as a top risk factor.

Movement

Consistent movement is important in office and 24/7-hour workplaces. Having an ergonomic office chair to meet these long hours is key to physical and ergonomic wellbeing. This is what the Synergy range from UnitedSeats provides.

Solution

The UnitedSeats Synergy range meets the highest level of testing from the TÜV for approvals:

- BS5459-2:2000+A2+2008 (24/7 usage)
- EN 1335-1/EN 1335-2 (General office)
- Crib 5 BS 7176: 2007 and A1:2011 for flame retardancy

Meaning you can have the highest confidence in the ability of the Synergy range.

Back 2 Work

For users with back pain issues the ergonomic Synergy chair range can help you get back to work!

Movement for the operator

The wide range of adjustments of the Synergy chairs, allows the user to move frequently to ease pressure on the body, legs, back and head.

TRIMS

Due to the intensive use associated with 24/7 environments such as control rooms, surveillance centres, emergency centres, trading rooms and rail operating centres, it is essential that the trims used on the Synergy range are robust enough to withstand continuous use by multiple operators across different shifts, even in challenging and dirty environments.

While durability is essential, operators, staff, and management also expect comfortable and breathable seating materials in office and control room environments. To meet these requirements, UnitedSeats offers the standard combination of deluxe leather with plush fabric combinations on all Synergy seating models. Double-stitched sewing lines provide additional strength and durability, ensuring the upholstery withstands intensive daily use.

For the Synergy C8 Pro top of the range ergonomic office chair, UnitedSeats offers a full black luxury leather option ideal for executive offices and high level operational environments.

To complement different brands and corporate identities, UnitedSeats can also provide bespoke upholstery finishes and colour combinations. These custom solutions are supported by our in-house upholstery department, ensuring both quality and flexibility.

The leather selected for the Synergy range combines style with durability. It offers a premium appearance and can be easily maintained using standard leather furniture cleaning products.

UnitedSeats is also a big 'Advocate' of Regain fabrics made from 100% recycled plastic bottles. This makes it ideal for customers who seek to promote 'Green' initiatives. There are a wide selection of colours available.

Crib 5 flammability testing

Our Synergy chairs comply with BS7176:2007+A1:2011 (Crib 5) as completed at the Textile Lab in Hengelo, the Netherlands.

Personalisation

Our multi adjustable comfort headrest has been designed with an easy fit antimacassar. This feature is ideal for hygiene reasons where the chairs are used by shift operators in 24/7 environments. It also makes it easy for UnitedSeats to make the chairs bespoke by adding a company's logo which is perfect for that corporate look!
