AFA exists to be a catalyst in the preparation of a new generation of agriculture leaders.
An artist designs the masterpiece carefully, taking this piece and attaching it to that, deftly welding a joint stronger than either of the two halves, making something that truly is better together.

Similarly, agriculture and food are made stronger when each of us brings our talents, ideas, backgrounds and experiences to the table and allow them to shape solutions we can pursue together.

Here’s the thing. There’s a lot you don’t know about me. You might think you could figure out my story from how I look or talk, but if you try, there is so much you’d miss. The same is true of you. There is so much underneath; so many shaping experiences that have melded you into who you are today.

When we bring our different backgrounds and ideas, thoughts and experiences together through a catalyst like Agriculture Future of America, we develop a stronger, more impactful future for agriculture and food.

This is the hard part, though. For fusion to occur, the barriers and exteriors must be melted. These strong joints are not formed by cold metal. The pieces are only fused under intense heat.

This year, we’re asking you to dig a little deeper. Dig deeper into agriculture’s story. Keep your eyes and ears open to the stories of those around you. Listen for opportunities that you never would have considered. Learn what your part in all of this is. None of us has all the answers, but together we can find solutions.

Agriculture is measured in seasons, and each new season brings another chance for us to be better together. Your success does not diminish mine. This isn’t a puzzle with finite edges. Agriculture and food are dynamic and keep evolving alongside society.

Here at AFA Leaders Conference we commit to finding common ground. We commit to looking at our differences with each other and those agriculture serves as opportunities, instead of challenges. What we learn here we will take back to our campuses and into our careers. As a generation we will create bonds that fuse the industry and make it so much better together.
I had the privilege of playing on a couple of national championship football teams in college. Because of this experience, I understand the concept of fusing people, passions, perspectives, skills and strengths together for a greater good. There is no greater feeling than success as a result of the fusion of diverse parts to make a profound whole.

Let’s be honest — it’s not easy. I’m not even sure our coaches knew what they were doing other than they were committed to finding great people who could buy into a greater purpose than self. These are prerequisites for fusion.

As human beings, we have tendency to be selfish. To truly fuse with a group of people in a way that makes everyone profoundly better, you have to forget a little bit about self. To describe this, we use terms like servant leadership and valuing perspectives.

Over the next few days, try to think less about self and understand your peers better — the ones who didn’t come from your part of the country; who don’t look like you; who have different beliefs. Listen to understand. When you do that well, you will Fuse and we will be Better Together!

Agriculture Future of America

AFA creates partnerships that identify, encourage and support outstanding young people pursuing careers in agriculture. AFA is nationally recognized for its excellence in leader training and career development for college students and young professionals in the agricultural and food industry.

AFA Leaders Conference

AFA Leaders Conference is a key component of AFA’s leader and career development training program. This forum provides students an opportunity to develop key competencies to enhance their marketable skills. Agricultural businesses, organizations, associations, institutions and individuals invest in this program as a means to develop human capital for our industry.

At Conference, students participate in one of four program tracks with the following emphases:

Track 1 — Personal assessment and career preparation
Track 2 — Communication and relationship-building skills
Track 3 — Managing change and preparing to live and work in a global marketplace
Track 4 — Lifelong learning and industry awareness

Learn more about each specific track in the next pages. All AFA delegates, industry professionals and volunteers are invited to share their thoughts about the 2018 AFA Leaders Conference via social media using #AFALC18. Find us there, too!

AFA Opportunity Fair

Agriculture Future of America connects college students to opportunities for career development in business, production, education, science and technology.

The AFA Opportunity Fair is designed to give participating organizations a competitive edge in the identification of human capital. AFA connects students and employers based on shared interests.

During the AFA Opportunity Fair, students learn about available internships and full-time employment opportunities, as well as graduate school and international study programs. Recruiters are eager to share their definitions of agriculture and explore opportunities to help students create stronger personal and professional portfolios through internships or full-time employment.

Track 1 Student Advisory Team

“Ignite your passion. Fuel your growth. Solidify your future.”

The pillar of the Track 1 program is self assessment. Understanding your talents, skills, values and motivations is important to finding the right career path, activating personal growth and defining your contribution to the agricultural community. Self awareness leads to a higher level of cognition and ability to work with those around you in order to reach your potential.

Thank you to all presenters, many of whom volunteer their services, for making this program possible for the next generation of agricultural leaders.

Track 3 delegates will have a better understanding of obstacles they may encounter, what tools and information will assist them in making critical decisions and how to transition into the global marketplace as they navigate change in their lives.

Thank you to all presenters, many of whom volunteer their services, for making this program possible for the next generation of agriculture leaders.

Track 4 is a unique capstone experience for seniors who have been involved in multiple tracks of the AFA program. Building on the competency development from previous years, Track 4 is a highly interactive, participant-directed program. Sessions focus on making the transition from college to career and discussing individual and collective impacts to global agricultural issues. Discussion groups, participant-led facilitation and pre-conference preparation add value to the experience. Extensive executive mentoring is an integral part of Track 4.

Thank you to all presenters, many of whom volunteer their services, for making this program possible for the next generation of agricultural leaders.
