Top Agency 2026: 32 Engel & Völkers agencies among the excellences of Italian real estate

Milan, October 22, 2026 – Engel & Völkers will be among the main figures at Top Agency 2026, the event dedicated to the excellences of Italian real estate scheduled for Tuesday, October 27 at Borsa Italiana in Milan.

During the event, 32 Engel & Völkers agencies featured in the Top Agency 2026 ranking will be awarded, a result that testifies to the network's presence and competitiveness across the national territory.

The Top Agency 2026 ranking orders Italian real estate agencies based on revenue results recorded in 2024. The minimum threshold to access the ranking is set at 400,000 euros in annual revenue.

The presence of 32 Engel & Völkers offices among the selected agencies represents recognition of the network's hard work and the ability of various local entities to establish themselves in their respective markets, within a model that combines strong local knowledge with an international brand and network.

«Italy continues to represent one of the most sought-after markets internationally. Alongside the historically more established destinations, we are observing an expansion of the geography of premium demand and growing attention toward territories capable of offering quality of life, authenticity, and long-term value. In this scenario, the strength of a locally rooted yet international network represents an increasingly strategic element,» comments Muhannad Al Salhi, CEO of Engel & Völkers Italy.

The day of October 27 will also be an opportunity for discussion among key industry figures regarding ongoing transformations in Italian real estate and market perspectives. Muhannad Al Salhi, CEO of Engel & Völkers Italy, will participate in the event's first panel discussion, dedicated to the trends of the national real estate market, comparison with main international trends, and the increasingly significant role of international clients in Italy.

“Every year, the Top Agency ranking provides an accurate snapshot of how real estate brokerage in Italy is changing, and for several editions now, it clearly reflects the growth of Engel & Völkers. The 32 awarded agencies this year confirm an increasingly strong presence of the network, resulting from a model that combines a highly recognizable international brand with deep local knowledge. It is a formula that fully captures current market dynamics, where the luxury segment and the influence of foreign buyers are growing. More and more foreign investors are looking at Italy, and for them, relying on a global network with local roots makes all the difference.” – Mattia Colantuoni, General Manager of Wikicasa
