Work Empowers Women

Welcome

Who are we

SisterWorks is a not-for-profit certified social enterprise that supports women from refugee, migrant, and asylum-seeking backgrounds through employment, training, and entrepreneurship.

Our upcycled tarpaulin product line is created by the women we support, our Sisters, through our production and training model.

With every item made, we create new employment opportunities and promote economic empowerment for our Sisters.

What We Do

01

Circularity for Net Carbon Goals

We upcycle industrial-grade tarpaulins into durable products that reduce waste, promote circularity while also withstand work site conditions.

03

Priority Job Seekers (CSR)

Each product creates employment hours for our Sisters, empowering women through meaningful work and building valuable skills.

02

Locally Made = Local Content

Locally designed and manufactured in Springvale, our products meet local content requirement for construction projects, transport operators, and councils.

04

Social Procurement Partnership

By choosing our products, you support a certified social enterprise and meet social-procurement requirements while generating real impact.

Innovation in Action
