

Julie Karl Skovgaard

Julie Karl Skovgaard is co-founder and Chief Operating Officer (COO) at Agreena, the leading climate fintech helping farmers transition profitably to regenerative practices and supporting companies in reaching their climate goals.

With over 10 years of experience in market-leading technical quality and solutions that push technology to its limits, Julie co-founded Agreena in 2018 with the vision to harness the power of technology and finance to fight climate change while protecting farms. As COO, Julie oversees the company's day-to-day operations. With her ambition and expertise, she leads the company's growth by embedding operational efficiency and fostering a culture of continuous improvement. that has been pivotal in the company's scaling to make tomorrow's sustainable agriculture system a reality today.

Julie holds a Bachelor's degree from CBS in Business and Marketing Management, complemented by a Master's degree in Digital Business from Hyper Island.
