

Kanika Chandaria

Kanika Chandaria is the Head of Global Marketing & Communications at Agreena, where she leads the company's global brand, demand marketing, thought leadership, brand partnerships and public relations, building awareness and driving adoption of regenerative agriculture and climate finance solutions across markets and stakeholders.

With a decade of experience at the intersection of venture capital, venture building, and climate innovation, Kanika brings deep expertise in 0-1 business building and a passion for scaling solutions that address the interconnected climate and nature crises. Prior to Agreena, she co-founded and led BCG Green Ventures, partnering with startups, corporates, and investors to build and grow climate tech ventures in areas such as carbon markets, long-duration energy storage, fashion circularity, and regenerative agriculture.