

KPMG Digital Finance

Your end-to-end managed finance platform

KPMG Digital Finance is a complete, end-to-end solution for your finance function, combining an innovative AI platform with the deep knowledge and experience of our finance professionals to provide an outcome-led, specialized finance managed service—all for a single subscription fee. It provides a strategic alternative to the cost and complexity of a traditional ERP implementation and the limitations of entry-level accounting systems and home-grown applications.

The CFO's mandate in 2026: Predict, adapt, and outperform

The role of the CFO has permanently evolved. By 2026, financial leaders will be measured by their ability to navigate unprecedented volatility and capitalize on emerging opportunities. Winning in this environment requires solving the next generation of challenges:

The talent war:
The scarcity of specialized finance and data science talent is making it impossible to build and retain a future-ready team in-house.

The demand for new metrics:
Investors and regulators are expanding their focus beyond the balance sheet to auditable ESG, sustainability, and other non-financial metrics.

The pace of AI:

Your competitors are leveraging AI. Keeping up requires continuous investment and specialist resource that distracts from your core business.

The platform: Your modern finance architecture

The service is built on a unified, AI-powered platform that delivers the capabilities you need without the IT overhead.

Feature

Your advantage

AI & automation

The platform uses machine learning for anomaly detection and automates routine tasks. This frees your team to use embedded generative AI for levelling up narrative reporting and predictive insights.

Unified dashboards

You get real-time, consolidated visibility into financial performance and operational KPIs from a single source of truth.

Continuous evolution

The platform continuously evolves with the latest technologies, relevant updates, and leading practices, to help keep your finance operations ahead of current and future requirements.

Audit-ready security

Your financial architecture is secure, controlled, and compliant, confirmed by a SOC 1 Type 1 report and ready for emerging reporting demands.

The managed service: Your comprehensive, outcome-led finance function

Our service provides the people and processes to run your finance function, removing the management burden from your team.

Service component

Your advantage

End-to-end operations

Our team manages the full scope of finance operations—from transaction processing and payroll to the financial close and reporting.

Simplified contracting

You get a world-class finance function through a single contract with KPMG, simplifying complex vendor and system management.

Flexible implementation

We move at your pace to help ensure a comfortable transition, delivering initial value in as little as 90 days and full deployment in up to six months for more complex environments.

Technology-driven scalability

Our platform enables you to scale efficiently through technology, not by adding resources, creating economies of scale as your business grows.

Reduced overhead

Our service includes full platform support and upgrades, removing the need for you to hire and retain a specialized IT or finance team.

The strategic outcomes: Your future-ready benefits

KPMG Digital Finance is designed to deliver embedded capabilities that drive long-term value.

Outcome

The bottom line

Achieve a resilient cost structure

Move from a fixed to a variable cost model, reducing total finance function costs by up to 30% and saving up to 40% compared to a traditional ERP implementation.

Unlock predictive and prescriptive insights

Go beyond historical reporting. The platform's AI capabilities deliver the forward-looking insights needed to anticipate market changes and shape future outcomes.

Build enduring business agility

With operations taken care of with confidence, your finance function becomes a catalyst for growth, enabling the entire business to pivot, adapt, and seize opportunities faster.

Where do you go from here?

The scale and speed of transformation required to keep up is unprecedented. The key to success is taking the first step by developing a blueprint for how your finance function can turn disruptors into opportunities for value creation and growth.
