Prepare to Lead in a Complex World

Curious about what drives people, shapes economies, and powers societies? Hult's unique PEP program gives you the tools and core human skills to explore how minds, markets, and governments interact. Whether you want to go into business, influence public policy, or change the world in the non-profit sector, this program will equip you to lead with purpose.

Interdisciplinary by design for real-world impact

At the intersection of psychology, economics, and politics, from day one you'll connect ideas across disciplines and apply them to real-world challenges.

Based on our London campus, learning alongside a student body of 150 nationalities, you will be in the perfect place to understand the complexities of global issues inside and outside the classroom.

“I didn't just make friends from every single continent, I got to work with them on real projects and pitch ideas to real companies together. That's where the magic was.”

Yasmim Souza, Brazil
Hult undergraduate

The core of your PEP gives you the foundational knowledge you need. Each term, you'll apply what you've learned in your courses to a new core challenge. At the end of your studies, you'll bring everything together in your capstone project, as a final demonstration of your abilities.

Core curriculum

Build a strong foundation in psychology, economics, and politics through subject-specific courses, which develop core skills. Apply what you learn in team-based challenges designed to help you connect key concepts to real-world scenarios.

Course subjects	Challenges
Social Psychology	Human Society Challenge
Economics	Power of Experimentation Challenge
Political Theory	Influence & Manipulation Challenge
Research Methodology	Designing Better Policies Challenge
International Relations
Econometrics
Comparative Politics

Final year capstone

Demonstrate your interdisciplinary skillset in the Hult Business Challenge by developing a behavioral policy or strategic business solution in collaboration with an external partner.

HULT BUSINESS CHALLENGE EXAMPLE

Changing minds, changing systems

In this final, integrative challenge, students work on a major global issue, such as mental health, vaccine hesitancy, or climate adaptation through the combined lenses of psychology, politics, and economics. The capstone culminates in a formal policy simulation where students defend their proposal before an expert jury of faculty and external advisors.

Beyond the core

Once you have completed the required core program, you may choose to study during the summers, take electives aligned with your interests or career goals, or earn credit through an internship or a global exchange—gaining more hands-on experience and broadening your international perspective.

Coaching & skills development

Support is personal at Hult. From day one, you will be paired with a personal coach to help you develop your core human skills: communication, collaboration, creativity, critical thinking, and curiosity. Alongside a team of career guidance counselors, they will align your learning with your career goals.

“My teaching style is rooted in active blended learning principles that combine contemporary and traditional teaching methods.”

Stefania Cassar, PhD
Professor of Psychology & Liberal Arts
