

Carsten Schicker

Chief Executive Officer, World Health Summit

Carsten Schicker has been Chief Executive Officer of the World Health Summit, the leading international forum for global health, since 2023.

Trained as a lawyer and journalist, he has built a career as a strategy and finance executive with more than 15 years of experience leading transformations in multinational corporations and family-owned companies. Before joining the World Health Summit, he was Chief Strategy Officer at Bauer Media Group, a German multi-business company. He also held senior leadership positions at Bertelsmann, a German media, education, and services group, and at McKinsey & Company, a leading management consultancy.

MORE