

There once was an ugly duckling...

Jeremy Collyer

Hi there! I'm super excited to share my journey of Swan Photography with you. I've taken a series of photographs on the beautiful River Thames in Bourne End and also in Southwater Country Park, and I'd love for you to join me on this adventure. Together, we'll learn about the fascinating life cycle of the Swan, a truly iconic bird that holds significant importance in British history. We'll also discover the conservation efforts being made to protect these magnificent creatures in our modern world. So, come along, let's explore the Thames and discover the wonders of the Swan!
