EXPERIENCE

I have extensive experience and many years of expertise in legal advice and advocacy, particularly in contentious matters in the fields of industry, infrastructure and transportation. Litigation means analysis, reflection, diligence and – above all – responsibility towards the client. I do not owe any elaborate legal briefs, but a case-related and targeted legal representation to protect the interests of the client. The same maxim applies to me when advising family businesses, their owners or other parties seeking legal advice, be it with regard to day-to-day business, ongoing disputes, impending litigation, the identification of legal risks or with regard to estate planning. I know very quickly what is at stake.
