

WeKomply strengthens its whistleblowing offering through the acquisition of Ilmoituskanava

Helsinki, Finland – 1.9.2026 – WeKomply, a leading Northern European provider of compliance, risk and quality management software solutions and a portfolio company of VIA equity, today announced that its Finnish brand Falcony has acquired the Ilmoituskanava whistleblowing service and related business assets from the Finland Chamber of Commerce.

The acquisition strengthens WeKomply's position in the Finnish market for whistleblowing and compliance software and further expands Falcony's offering within reporting and involvement solutions. As part of the transaction, Ilmoituskanava's customers will gradually transition to the Falcony platform, ensuring continuity of service while providing access to broader functionality and ongoing product development.

Ilmoituskanava is a trusted, cost-effective whistleblowing service that helps organisations meet the requirements of the EU Whistleblower Directive and the Finnish Whistleblower Protection Act, which has, since 1 January 2023, obliged organisations with 50 or more employees to provide a secure channel for reporting suspected misconduct. The service enables confidential and anonymous reporting through high-standard data security, and has earned strong customer satisfaction for its ease of use and personal support. It is used by a broad base of well-known Finnish organisations across the private and public sectors.

Going forward, Ilmoituskanava customers can expect continued high-quality service and a smooth transition to Falcony. The Falcony platform provides functionality for whistleblowing, incidents, observations, audits and inspections, enabling organisations to manage a broad range of reporting and compliance processes in one platform. As part of WeKomply, Falcony is also supported by the Group's broader operational, technological and compliance expertise.

"Whistleblowing is a natural extension of what Falcony already does: making it easy for people to report the issues that matter and for organisations to act on them," says Arttu Vesterinen, CEO of Falcony, WeKomply. "Ilmoituskanava has built a strong reputation and a loyal customer base in Finland, and we are proud to continue that work. Our priority is to ensure a smooth transition for every customer, combining the trusted service they value today with the broader capabilities and continued development of the Falcony platform."

For Ilmoituskanava customers, the transaction is intended to provide continuity in the whistleblowing service they rely on while adding the backing of an international software group focused exclusively on compliance and risk management technology. The parties will work together to support an orderly transition and clear communication with customers.

"It was a natural step for the Finland Chamber of Commerce to develop a whistleblowing service as new legislation came into force and companies faced new compliance requirements. At this point we wanted to find an owner for Ilmoituskanava that understands the importance of secure whistleblowing solutions and is committed to developing them over the long term,” Says Mari Hakkarainen, Director of Services of Finland Chamber of Commerce. “WeKomply and Falcony combine deep compliance expertise with strong software capabilities and a broader portfolio of complementary solutions. We believe this creates an excellent foundation for the future of Ilmoituskanava and its customers. Finland Chamber of Commerce and Falcony will also continue to cooperate, combining their respective expertise to support Finnish organisations in strengthening compliance and responsible business practices.”

Ilmoituskanava customers can expect continued service and support throughout the transition. Existing customer organisations will receive practical information directly as the integration progresses. The aim is to preserve the trusted reporting experience while creating a foundation for continued product development and access to complementary compliance capabilities across WeKomply Group.
