W&H Showcases Cutting Edge Solutions and Innovations at the 99th Annual Greater New York Dental Meeting

Experience W&H's full portfolio of innovations and cutting edge solutions at their booth at one of the largest Dental Congresses in the United States.

WINDSOR, ONTARIO, Oct 31, 2023: W&H Group, a leading international medical technology company, will showcase their full portfolio of innovations and solutions for dental professionals at the 99th Annual Greater New York Dental Meeting. The exhibit portion of the meeting takes place on November 26 – 29, 2023 at the Jacob K. Javits Convention Center in New York City.

Recently Released Products

W&H will be presenting several of their newly released products including the Lexa Plus pre-vacuum, Class B sterilizer, the Assistina One single port maintenance device as well as the Piezomed module, an easy add-on solution for the Implantmed, simplifying the processes of oral surgery and implantology.

Additionally, their full portfolio of products will be presented including their line of restorative, prophylaxis and surgical handpieces as well as surgical devices for hands-on testing at their booth, so visitors can personally experience the performance and superior quality. The sales team will be providing one-on-one demonstrations of both new and existing products as well as offering special show promotions.

“As this is our second year attending the Greater New York Dental Meeting, we’re once again looking forward to engaging with the dental professional community, educating them on our workflow solutions as well as providing the opportunity for them to experience our products hands-on at our booth,” said Rick Pinero, General Manager of W&H's Dental Equipment Business Unit.
