

DENIOS

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION & WORK SAFETY

Are you looking for a new professional challenge in a growing, international company? Do you want to be part of the success of an innovative market leader? Would you like to make an active contribution to operational environmental protection and to increasing work safety?

Then come and join DENIOS AG. Apply as:

Senior Lean Manager (m/f/d)

Job profile

- Analysis, evaluation, targeted and sustainable optimization of the production and order flow process from a lean perspective
- Communication and achievement of the set lean goals
- Identification, structuring, coordination and active follow-up of lean initiatives
- Development and introduction of lean, flowing, standardized processes in cooperation with the executives
- Lean coaching and training
- Regular status updates of the lean activities
- Recording of the cost reduction potential
- Participation in cross-location lean management activities, as well as location-specific activities in all of our production locations (Europe, USA, China)

Requirement profile

- Completed university degree in industrial engineering or other courses related to lean production / management
- Qualification as a Lean Manager (m/f/d) or comparable qualification
- Well-founded experience in the independent introduction and implementation of lean management in a manufacturing company
- Proven process excellence and strong analytical skills
- Sound capabilities in setting up of lean tools and methods – 5S, ShopFloorManagement, KANBAN, OnePiece Flow, VSM, KAIZEN, KATA,...
- Balanced and motivating leadership personality
- Willingness to deal with the special challenges of the production of hazardous material storage systems
- Confident handling of MS Office programs
- Willingness to travel
- Six Sigma green Belt certification desirable
- Very good knowledge of English, good knowledge of German is desirable / alternatively Italian, French or Czech language

Your benefits

- Work for an environmental protection company
- Exciting, challenging tasks in a modern environment and in a pleasant working atmosphere
- A structured and professional training
- Being part of an internationally operating team
- Direct report to the Director International Operations (Bad Oeynhausen, Germany), but the possibility of predominantly working from a DENIOS location in France, the Czech Republic or at the headquarter in Germany
- Above average remuneration

For 35 years, DENIOS AG has been the leading specialist in the storage of hazardous substances, operational environmental protection and work safety. As a manufacturer and developer, DENIOS helps companies to meet their growing responsibilities when handling hazardous substances.

With more than 900 employees, we develop, produce and distribute our products in Germany, Europe, America and China.

Interested?

Send your completed application along with a possible start date and salary requirements, preferably by email to: karriere@denios.de

DENIOS AG

Human Resources
Dehmer Straße 58 - 66
32549 Bad Oeynhausen
www.denios.de

Because nature trusts in us.